Los Coyotes Indian Reservation, San Diego County

As a result of rains and flash flooding on the Los Coyotes Indian Reservation in San Diego County, Mission #2016-Southern-22320 was approved to address the community life safety needs, road repair, and other critical concerns in conjunction with FEMA, Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), Cal OES Southern Region, Cal OES Tribal Advisor, Caltrans Region XI, San Diego County OES, and Los Coyotes Tribal personnel.

- Caltrans installed five (8'x12') steel plates along with safety signage to provide temporary road stability and improved access over the Los Coyotes Reservation's only life line road.
- The road is currently stable with one lane closed
- Stakeholders will continue to monitor the situation to provide long term solutions.
- Per the Cal OES Southern Duty Officer (SDO), due to miscommunication between BIA and Tribal personnel, BIA will conduct another site visit on 04/25/16.
- The Tribe has applied for a US Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) funding waiver for repairs. USACE assessed the road and is awaiting BIA assessment
- All further action is on hold pending the BIA assessment.
- National Weather Service is providing the Tribe with daily spot forecast data. There is currently a potential for precipitation on 04/25/16 which may cause additional road damage
- Emergency preparations in place, including food and generators staged with the Viejas and San Manuel Tribes offering assistance (no monetary contributions)
- The Cal OES Southern Region Tribal Point of Contact, Territory Representative, and SDO continue to monitor the incident.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Medford Weather:

The closed low pressure will continue to move toward the southern Oregon coast today. The low pressure will continue to send a series of short wave disturbance inland and this will lead to periods of rain throughout the day. Radar and satellite pictures show a band of rain across western Siskiyou County. Short term models show the area to be very unstable. The atmosphere stabilizes slightly late this morning as the short wave troughs rotate out of the area, but by midafternoon we expect unstable conditions to return especially along the Cascades. The low pressure will also be moving overhead over our forecast area this afternoon and evening.

Eureka Weather:

Numerous showers will continue through the day today, including potentially a few rumbles of thunder. Snow levels will fall to around 4500 feet as well. Unsettled and cool weather will continue through the weekend, although shower coverage and strength will decrease overall after today.

Reno Weather:

A potent Pacific storm will move through the region today. Strong and gusty winds can be expected along with valley rain and mountain snow. A brief break is expected Saturday before a series of systems is expected next week. Showery conditions are expected Sunday afternoon and beyond along with cool temperatures.

San Francisco Weather:

A cold front will slide across the forecast area today bringing the possibility of a wet morning commute for the San Francisco Bay Area. Showers will linger into the evening hours with a slight chance of afternoon thunderstorms. The best possibility of thunderstorms will be from San Jose northward.

Sacramento Weather:

A weather system is moving inland this morning and will spread showers to much of Northern California through tonight. Expect snow above 6000 feet and the possibility of thunderstorms this afternoon into evening.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

A series of Pacific storm systems will track eastward across central California during the next several days. Each storm will bring a chance of showers to mainly the higher terrain and be accompanied by gusty winds on the west side of the San Joaquin Valley and in the Kern County mountains and desert. Temperatures will average near to slightly below normal through the period.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Onshore flow will bring cooler temperatures to southwest California today, with highs in the mid 60s to lower 70s. A weak frontal system will bring a slight chance of showers to areas from Lompoc northward this afternoon and along the north slopes tonight. An unsettled pattern is expected going into next week with gusty winds and the possibility of rain.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

A low pressure trough will move through Northern California today and tonight. It will bring cooler weather, more clouds, strong winds in the mountains and deserts, as well as a slight chance of light showers tonight. The weekend will continue relatively cool, but seasonal. On Sunday night and Monday another trough of low pressure will move through California and bring a small chance of showers and gusty winds. Another possibility of rain arrives Thursday.

Southeast California Weather:

Expect another very warm day today before a series of low pressure systems move through the western states this weekend and next week. These systems will lead to much cooler temperatures along with windy conditions at times. However, moisture will be limited and rain chances will tend to be confined to areas north of Interstate 40 until possibly late next week.
